DETAILED ACTION

1. This Office Action is in response to applicant's amendment filed on March 24, 2005.

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 5-12 and 19-21 are allowed.

Reasons For Allowance

3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowable subject matter:

Claims 5 and 19 are allowable over the prior art of record because the teachings of the references taken as a whole do not teach or render obvious the combination set forth, including that the latch plate and the latch are mounted to a common pivot (claim 5) and that the lever plate and the latch plate are coupled such that rotation of the lever plate causes the rotation of the latch plate and the latch (claim 19).

Tucker (US 3,177,687) discloses a sliding door latch assembly. The assembly comprises a vertically extended housing (the space where 11 is located) with a vertically extended major portion; a pull handle (12 or 18) opposite the housing major portion; and a latch (36) mounted within the housing major portion and shiftable to and from the housing for locking a sliding door to a cooperating keeper mounted in a sliding door jamb opposite the latch.

The assembly further includes a rotary actuator (22) located within the housing major portion; and a hand-operated lever (50) rotatably mounted to the housing beyond (on or far from) the housing major portion (Figures 3 and 4).

However, Tucker fails to disclose that the latch plate and the latch are mounted to a common pivot. Tucker discloses that the latch plate (26) is rotatable with respect to a first pivot (27) and the latch (36) with respect to a second pivot (38) different from the first pivot.

Furthermore, Tucker also fails to disclose that rotation of the lever plate causes the rotation of the latch plate and the latch. Tucker's lever plate (45) does not cause the rotation of the latch plate (26), it cause the rotation of the latch only (Col. 2 Line 70 to Col. 3 Line 1).

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
